Community Activities In Winona District

On Sunday morning April 2nd, beginning at 10.30 o'clock, the Sunday School at Winona School will commence its summer session, a very cordial invitation is extended to all persons in the district, and particularly to the children. If there are any persons in the district who have not been asked to help and are willing to do so they will receive a very hearty welcome from the officers if they will make themselves known.

Coslayde School has again carried off the prize, donated by the Strathcona Trust Fund, to the School based in Physical Culture, in the Vermilion Inspectorate.

We don't like to boast, but we believe that there is not a finer lot of horses in any district in Western Canada than can be seen in the district covered by Merton School Fair. Clydesdales and cheshires are the predominate breeds, all kinds and sizes can be seen. Just to give you some idea, we quote from the Merton Spectator Prize List for the coming summer:

- Class 67. Draft colt, born in current year.
- Class 68. Agricultural Colt, born in current year.
- Class 69. Percheron Colt, born in current year. (Carson, Dunn and Henton).
- Class 70. Yearling Draft Colt, born in 1921.
- Class 71. Yearling Agricultural Colt, born in 1921.
- Class 72. Yearling Draft Colt, born in 1921. (Warren prize).
- Class 73. Yearling Agricultural Colt, born in 1921. Percheron Sire. (Special).
- Class 74. Yearling Agricultural Colt, born in 1921. Clyde Sire (Special).
- Class 75. Best Colt, sired by "Ladlic Crown" (Special).

It would appear as though some people had faith in the horse business. The yearling classes are a new departure in the School Fair, those who advocate it, claim that if the colts are properly fed and cared for, such a vast improvement will be noticed, that in future better care and attention will be given all colts.

Chauvin Athletic Association Hold Enthusiastic Meeting

An enthusiastic meeting of the Chauvin Athletic Association was held in the I.O.O.F. Hall, Thursday evening March 23rd. Some delay was experienced in getting things started, a messenger going out to gather in a few who were notable by their absence. In the meantime the chair was taken by L. D'Albertanson and the secretary, H. Quam, read the minutes of the last meeting which were approved as read.

The financial statement for the past year was read. This showed a balance in hand of 327.93 and was approved with considerable enthusiasm. President Cubitt arriving at this time, Mr. D'Albertanson with the consent of the meeting vacated the chair in his favor.

Election of officers was the next item on the agenda. D. W. Parcells being unanimously appointed president for 1922 on motion of C. C. McKeechie. W. Cubitt was elected vice president by acclamation. H. N. Freeman, G. W. Allan, A. C. Gifford declined to accept nomination. In the same manner H. Quam was elected secretary, after C. G. Foryan, J. A. MacKenzie and A. C. Gifford had declined nomination.

Messrs K. Godin, C. C. McKeechie, J. A. MacKenzie, H. Freeman, A. E. Keith, L. D'Albertanson, C. G. Foryan, G. W. Allan, A. C. Gifford, J. A. Montjoy, G. Reynolds, S. H. Davis and J. A. Code were all nominated to act as an executive committee. Upon ballot being taken, Messrs K. Godin, C. C. McKeechie, J. MacKenzie, H. N. Freeman, A. E. Keith, G. W. Allan and J. A. Code were elected.

In the matter of annual fee, it was moved by C. G. Foryan and L. D'Albertanson that the annual fee for 1922 be $2.00. An amendment that the fee be one dollar was moved by W. Cubitt and K. Godin. Seven votes were cast for the amendment and five for the motion. It being lost $1.00.

J. A. Code finally accepted the office of baseball manager, after H. Quam and K. Godin had declined this office. In accepting the post J. A. Code made it quite plain that he would undertake the duties of manager upon the understanding that he had the loyal backing and co-operation of the Association, he would expect that when necessary to call upon the members for assistance in the matter of transportation and other details that such assistance would be forthcoming.

W. Cubitt was appointed football manager for the coming season. It had declined the office, that seven out of eleven players in the old team had left the district. The meeting seemed to think that there was still a reasonable prospect of having a football team this season.

Mr. C. Laws then presented a request that the Athletic Association should take an interest in the school ball teams and do the same for the footballers and the baseball teams. It was moved by C. C. McKeechie and J. A. Code that the application of Mr. Laws on behalf of the basketball team for affiliation be accepted and that C. Laws be manager. This was carried by a unanimous vote.

A unanimous vote of thanks was heartily accorded the retiring officers motion of J. MacKenzie, who pointed out that they had left a splendid record behind them.

The importance of winter sports was clearly emphasized by J. A. Code who pointed out that for six months in the year the only sport for the children was that of skating. He urged that steps be taken towards planning a skating rink where the children could enjoy the sport during the winter months. It was useless to wait until the skating season was upon us. J. MacKenzie also pointed out that in this respect Chauvin had fallen behind her sister towns, mentioning what Edgerton had accomplished in this matter during the past season. It was also pointed out that the curriers had rarely been able to carry on, and had been unable to provide for the skating rink.

It was decided to appoint a committee of three to go into this question and to report to the Association at an early date, and preferably to have a tentative winter scheme for consideration. Messrs J. A. Code, J. MacKenzie and H. N. Freeman were appointed members of this committee.

Regarding the date of the Chauvin Sports day, it was moved by J. A. Code and C. C. McKeechie that the Chauvin Sports be held on July 3th. An amendment to this was moved by L. D'Albertanson and I. Cubitt that they be held on Wednesday, July 5th. And an amendment to the amendment by C. G. Foryan and J. MacKenzie that the date be fixed permanently on the first Wednesday after the 1st day of July. A lengthy debate then followed. J. A. Code, maintaining that July 4th had been established as Chauvin's Sport Day through the country and that this was essential to the success of the sports. It permitted exchange of visits and ensured a good baseball tournament.

D'Albertanson was of the opinion that there was a growing sentiment on the part of the public to hold public events on Canadian holidays, and that as Wednesday was early closing day it was preferable to hold the sports on that day of the week. The whole matter was very thoroughly threshed out by speaker after speaker. It was commonly consented to by all that the idea of keeping up the date as an American holiday had never been entertained by the association, and whilst some maintained that it would be wise to change the date to avoid any misunderstanding, others maintained that the question of its being an American holiday did not enter into the question at all and that it was Chauvin's day and that such it should remain. A suggestion that the matter should be left over to the next meeting for decision was not entertained, and upon a vote being taken six voted in favor of the amendment to the amendment, none in favor of the motion. It was decided therefore, to hold the Chauvin Sports on Tuesday, July 4th.

The meeting then adjourned.

It was moved by C. C. McKeechie and J. A. Code that the application

HOW CANADA IS GOVERNED

TRIAL OF CIVIL ACTIONS

In actions between persons for the settlement of dispute, the one who commences the suit for redress is called the plaintiff (from the French word meaning one who complains), and the other who is asked to give trial redress or to defend his refusal is the defendant (from a French and Latin word meaning to ward off, or defend).

The plaintiff obtains from an officer of a court a writ of summons and a statement of the claim, and these are served on the defendant, who has to put his defence in the form required by law, in certain cases one or both of the parties can make further statements.

When the case is ready for trial, and is called by the officer of the court, the counsel for the plaintiff explains the nature of the claim at issue. He then calls upon his witnesses, who are examined on oath by the other by himself, and cross-examined by the defendant's counsel to break down their testimony if possible, or to bring out points in favor of the defendant's side. Then, when the evidence for the plaintiff is all in, the defendant may call and examine his witnesses, who are cross-examined in turn by the plaintiff's counsel, and in certain cases the plaintiff may call additional witnesses to explain or contradict new statements made by the defendant's witnesses. If there are no witnesses for the defence the plaintiff's counsel sums up the evidence, and the defendant's counsel replies.

Sometimes the judge may order a "non-suit"; that is, dismiss the suit on the ground that the plaintiff has failed to make out his case.

When the evidence is given on both sides, the counsel for the defendant sums up, and the counsel for the plaintiff replies. If the case is one for a jury, the judge makes such observations as he deems proper, and instructs the jury as to the law of the case.

The jury then retire to their room to consider their verdict, which will be a decision on the facts, the law of the case they must take from the judge.

If they have decided for the plaintiff or defendant they return, and through their foreman give their verdict. If they cannot agree, and the judge is of opinion that there is no probability of their coming to an agreement, they are discharged from attendance, and the case has to be tried again before a new jury.

Speaking generally, the costs are paid by the person who has lost his suit. This has however, to be decided by the court according to its discretion and the circumstances of the case.

The law gives suitors in most cases an opportunity of appeal to the court above.

A plaintiff or defendant may conduct his own case, but when he is not a lawyer the wise course is to employ a professional man. A person charged with a criminal offence also has the right to defend himself.

In criminal cases, involving life and liberty, the justice proceeds with the greatest care. It is the duty of the crown prosecutor—to take all steps that the law requires for the trial of a prisoner if he is committed for trial by a magistrate on a criminal offence.

The "information" and all other papers setting forth the cause of the commitment are submitted to what is called a grand jury (except in Alberta and Saskatchewan, where it is sufficient to have the trial commence by a formal charge in writing setting forth the offence). The grand jury is composed of not less than twelve and not more than twenty-four persons chosen from a carefully selected panel or list of Jurymen.

In provinces where the panel is not more than thirteen, seven only are necessary to find a "true bill." The grand jury do not "try" an accused. No witnesses in support of the prosecutor are examined, for the grand jury has only to decide whether there is sufficient evidence to put the prisoner on his trial. If the grand jury decides to put the prisoner on his trial, the foreman writes "true times the court orders, in important cases and under special circumstances, that witnesses be kept out of the court room, and each witness is called in separately and examined, so that the others may not hear what is said. Counsel for the defence can cross-examine the witnesses. At the close of the case for the prosecution the defence must declare whether it intends to present evidence, and if crown's counsel may sum up, and the defence follows. The attorney general, or counsel acting on his behalf, may reply, but this privilege is usually reserved for special occasions. When the defence has evidence to adduce, it has the right to state the case on behalf of accused and then examine witnesses, who are subject to cross-examination by crown counsel. Any person on trial may give evidence on his or her own behalf. When the evidence for the defence is closed the counsel can sum up. The crown's counsel replies, and the judge finally reviews the evidence with strict impartiality and explains the law. The jury then retire in charge of an officer of the court to consider their verdict. When they have decided they come into court, and after each has answered to his name, they, through their foreman, declare whether the prisoner is "guilty," or "not guilty." When they cannot agree, and the court is satisfied that it is useless to keep them any longer, they are discharged from attendance, and a new jury may be drawn from the panel and the accused tried again or the trial postponed on such conditions as justice may require. Sometimes in giving a verdict of guilty the jury may consider some circumstances justify them in adding a recommendation of mercy. While this does not prevent the passing of the sentence it in most cases affects the punishment imposed by the judge.

Usually the judge has a discretion; within certain limits, as to the penalty he imposes, but in cases of high treason or murder he has no such discretion. A recommendation to mercy, if made in a case where the punishment is death, is submitted to the government when they are considering whether the sentence should be carried out or not.

APPEALS IN CRIMINAL CASES

The law allows appeals to a higher court in criminal cases under special circumstances. Points of law may be taken to the court of appeal. If that court gives a unanimous decision on the question submitted, it is final, but if any of the judges dissent, the case may go to the supreme court of Canada. Sentence may be postponed until the point at issue has been decided.

A new trial may be allowed, or other order given in the interests of justice. The Court of appeal or the minister of justice may also order a new trial when the court before which the trial took place gives leave to the prisoner's counsel to apply to the appeal court on the ground that the verdict was against the weight of evidence, or when the minister of justice himself entertains a doubt as to the justice of the conviction. If no appeal is allowed, or no new trial ordered, the convicted person must suffer the punishment that has been awarded him, unless indeed the governor-general is advised by the minister of justice, or in capital cases by the government, to exercise the royal prerogative of mercy, and modify the sentence, or pardon the prisoner, which is only done under very exceptional circumstances.

Professor Wyatt On Southern Soils Survey

This gentleman made some interesting statements on a topical subject. He had been one of the party told off by the late Federal Government to bring back a report of the soil possibilities of the wind blown areas in the South. He came armed with maps of the wind blown areas, and if we were farming in these areas we wouldn't enjoy hearing his report much. Over a large area the soil has lost its fibrous matter to the extent that blowing is inevitable, and the area is widening each year. Deeper plowing which has been tried as a preventative reveals the subsoil to be almost as fertile in jumas as the top strata used to be, but even the most optimistic acknowledge it can only be a matter of a few years till it becomes depleted of its wind resistant substances, and the old trouble with the wind will begin all over again, of necessity making the end worse than the beginning, both soils having been used up by that time.

The big idea is to get back the original organic matter to the soil. The growing of leguminous plants, by reason of their power to attract nitrogen is the remedy recommended, but in the present depleted condition of the soil, their success would be uncertain, unless a plentiful rainfall could be assured. Artificial rainfall in the form of irrigation ditches seems to be the only remedy, and even this 'first aid to drought' can only be a doubtful benefit until an effective drainage system to prevent soil souring, has been arranged for.

In the case of alfalfa, or even clover, soil inoculation would be necessary, and the success of this form of land culture depends on the condition of tillage, (and) moisture, etc., being favourably taken into gether this question of revitalizing these windblown areas is a problem to be regarded not so much with the viewpoint of the sectionalist, the sentimentalist, or even the humanitarian, as with the viewpoint of the agricultural expert the student of cause and effect, in collaboration with men whose vision is the best of the Province not in part but as a whole.

Fine Program For Spring Show At Edmonton

The Edmonton Spring Live Stock management announces that excursion rates have been secured on all railways for this event, which will be held April 10th to 15th, with the Spring Bull Sale on the 10th and 11th. A very interesting programme has been arranged for the entertainment of spectators, in addition to the show horse classes. "Credential," owned in Vancouver, and the highest jumping horse on American continent, with a record of 7 feet 8 1/2 inches will be present in contests with local horses—and some of the Alberta horsemen think they have horses which can beat him. A plucky little orewoman of Edmonton is arranging a 'stunt' with her horses which will make older and more experienced owners of horses open their eyes, and which should peak the building every night with interested spectators. Polo, played by competing teams from Calgary and Edmonton will also add spice to the programme.

The prize list has been distributed and intending exhibitors should remember that all entries close on March 27th. The bull sale catalogue (entries for which have closed) will shortly be ready for distribution to those asking for same. Manager W. J. Stark, Edmonton, will be glad to hear from those contemplating attending this Show.

Editorial Comment

The dating of the Chauvin Sports Day has been the general topic of discussion during the past few days. By a small majority vote it was decided to hold this event on the well-known and established date—July 4.

The supporters of the July 4th dating claim that this is the recognized "Chauvin Day"—that during the years past the selection of this date has been fully justified. The first Chauvin sports day was held on July 1st (Dominion Day) but in order to allow exchange of visits with other districts July 4th was afterward selected. This date was sufficiently far removed from the 1st, and was not late in the picnic season, and in the light of history is fully justified, being approved by the public, and being profitable to the organization. Hence we wish to devote the money to the upkeep of sport and a number of improvements.

The minority view is that there is an ample list of Dominion holidays from which might be chosen a date for the Chauvin Sports. They hold that Canadian sentiment demands a fuller local observations of these days—they hold too that with a weekly half-holiday each Wednesday, it is advisable in the case no Dominion holiday is found practicable, that the Sports Day be held consistently on a Wednesday. They consent for the sake of a settlement to the first Wednesday after the First of July.

There can be no doubt in the minds of all that there are too many holidays now on the calendar, especially during the summer season when all the time is absolutely needed on our work. In moments of exasperation we are tempted to think that we must toil and slave through all the days of nature's beauty and hopefulness in order to provide the meagre supply of black diamonds to keep our houses and children warm during the long spells of below zero weather. Be that as it may, saner reason demands that we all have a few days of enjoyment during the pleasant period of the year when nature has decked the country with its manifold beauties and the song of life has risen from out of winters chilly silence.

We are all practical work-a-day folk (we have to be, whether we like it or not) and some of us think that July 4th is the best day, whilst other think that we should reduce the number of public holidays. This being accomplished by recognizing only the Canadian national and the weekly half-holidays.

Suicide

Ivor Olsen destroyed his own life in a very tragic manner last Wednesday. After hauling two loads of feed he set up his gun on the corral, laid a bed of straw and shot himself.

When found sometime after he was dead.

The deceased, who leaves a widow and two children, was apparently a victim of despair, for he had worried very considerably about his financial matters.

The burial was made at the Roroch churchyard Monday. The body being interred and a service was held in the church at which Rev. Bragg officiated. The deep sympathy for the bereaved family was noted by the large attendance at the funeral.

Curlers Ball

A very pleasant time was spent by the Chauvin curlers and friends at the chicken supper and dance held in the Oddfellows Hall Monday evening. The dinner was served by Mr. Scheller and a splendid repast. After what might fairly be called a banquet a program of music and dancing was enjoyed by everyone. O. Hawthorne acting as master of ceremonies.

The prevailing weather during the past week has been cold and windy. Light flurries of snow have fallen, burnt deeply, barely sufficient to keep the trails in good shape.

Mr. L. B. Nicholson, of Dina was a visitor to Chauvin and Edgerton this week.

M. K. W. Coe was a business visitor to Chauvin Monday.

In reply to an inquiry from Miss Freeman, the Board decided to fix the week following the Easter holidays as the most convenient time for beginners to commence school. This would enable the teacher to make plans for same, and would obviate the necessity of having too many stages in the first class.

Parents who intend sending pupils during this term should please try to meet this arrangement.

Mr Clyde, the poultry expert, had a busy time in our midst. His remarks being full of useful information. In the Prosperity district he culled flocks on six farms. Mr Clyde was handicapped to some extent because he was sent as a substitute for the announced speaker and was not provided with the slides and lanterns which had been promised.

Device To Combat Cutworm Damage

If you are likely to be troubled with cut worms in your gardens you will be interested in an inexpensive device we have on exhibition at the Chronicle office. It consists of a piece of good grade tar paper, three inches in diameter, cut either in circular or hexagonal (six-sided) pattern, with a single straight cut from the edge to the centre. At the centre a crow's foot may, if desired, be cut with the three incisions one-sixth of an inch in length.

This simple device is placed around the stem of the growing plant, cabbage, tomato, or as the case may be, resting upon the ground. It is claimed that this prevents the grubs of the cutworm from reaching their natural feeding place, the roots. The eggs from which the larvae are hatched being laid by the fly on the upper portion of the plant.

A large number of the disks can be cut in a very short time and with a minimum of expense, and it is very probable that they will accomplish the purpose claimed, viz., saving the plant from the attack of the cutworm.

GREAT WAR VETERANS ASSOCIATION OF CANADA

March 19th 1922

We the Secretaries of all Branches Dear Sir and Comrade:—

On February 17th I circulated all Branches advising them that if any Comrade desires to wear his C.E.F. uniform it would first be necessary for him to remove buttons, badges, chevrons, etc, otherwise he would be liable to prosecution on the Order issued to all Police Departments by Military District 13.

I have just received advice that one of our Comrades in Castor has been apprehended and charged with wearing a military overcoat, convicted and sentenced to ten days hard labor without the option of a fine.

Now, Comrade Secretary, this Command has started something on the above-mentioned case and you can rely on us to do all possible towards getting this sentence remitted, but the fact remains that if any Comrade desires to wear his military overcoat or uniform he must first remove all buttons, badges, chevrons, and military distinguishing marks. Don't let this, but give it all publicity in order that our Comrades may be fully protected from this order.

I would be pleased to have advice and suggestions from your Branch on this subject.

Yours fraternally,
R. GALLACHER,
Provincial Secretary—Treasurer.

By the way the ladies of the Fram G.A. are providing a light lunch at the meeting on Saturday next, and are making a nominal charge of 10 cents for same.

Simple Plans For Storing Ice

Now that ice is being stored against the approach of spring and summer, the issue of revised pamphlet on "Simple Methods for the Storage of Ice" by the Dominion Dairy and Cold Storage Commissioner is very timely. This little brochure, which can be had on application to the Publications Branch at Ottawa, gives plans, with particulars of the material required for the construction at little cost of suitable ice-houses. Plan No. 1 shows that a rough board enclosure ten feet square and eight feet high will hold enough ice to provide 50 pounds per day for 130 days, after allowing for a reasonable amount of wastage. Rough boards with dry sawdust or planer-mill shavings comprise all the material required. Construction is explained in the pamphlet. Plan No. 2 embraces diagrams and partiturs for an insulated ice-house, providing 40 cubic feet of space for each ton of ice stored and at least 25 per cent for wastage. It will be seen that Plan No. 1 is for comparatively small quantities and Plan No. 2 for larger. In the latter case it is suggested that if sawdust or shavings are not obtainable, wild hay may be used if the space in the walls be increased by two feet and the hay well packed.

Directions are given for the drainage, framing, roof, walls and all other necessities in construction. Plan No. 3 includes specifications and instructions for the making of ice-walls such as are in use to some extent in the Western provinces. The particulars given seem to suggest that the well system could be used, for domestic purposes especially, in the East as well as in the West.

Offsetting Competition

The thing for the merchants of this community to do in their own interests is to advertise faithfully, and to make their printed announcements interesting and helpful to those whose trade and favor are desired.

The serious competitors of the retailers of this community are the big stores of the big cities—those that send out catalogues and have mail order departments.

The poorest way to offset this competition is for the local merchant to remain silent. For them not to "speak up" is to give the mail order houses a better chance to get business from this community.

A WORD TO THE PUBLIC

When you send your money out of this community you enrich the great shops and impoverish this community. Strengthen—not weaken—the merchants of this community. It will all be returned to you in the form of better service and better values.

GARDENING

BY A LOCAL GARDENER

Bush Fruits

Bush fruits suitable to this district are limited in number, but are in almost every instance very popular fruits in their season.

They are currants, red black and white, red raspberry and gooseberry. Currants thrive best in a deeply worked cool soil, clay loam or black muck worked with a liberal supply of well rotted manure worked in before planting.

All bush fruits should occupy part of the permanent garden where they will not be disturbed for a number of years. The location should have a northern exposure or be screened from the south by natural bluffs, or artificially by planting trees, hedges or erecting a close fence in order to keep back growth in the spring or long as possible. This is one of the most important factors in growing bush fruits successfully.

Where the location and soil conditions are favorable, currants, particularly the black varieties make great growth in a short time and therefore require considerable space to prevent crowding before the bushes require to be renewed.

Procure good 2 year old plants and set in rows about 5 feet between plants and 6 feet between the rows. Careful planting will save much disappointment. Make holes large enough to hold the roots without doubling or twisting, and deep enough so that the plant will be at least one inch deeper, after the work is completed than it was when growing in the nursery. Leave the soil a little higher in the centre than the sides and set the plant on the mound, spread out the roots and cover them to a depth of about 3 inches with the finest of soil shaking the plant sufficiently to work the soil in amongst the roots, tramp firmly, add more soil to within 3 inches of the surface pack and give each plant a pail of water. After the plants are all set and the water has soaked in fill the holes level with the surface. Cultivate frequently to keep down weeds and conserve moisture. For the first 2 years cultivation may be fairly deep in the centre of the rows, but later shallow cultivation will have to be practised as the roots come very close to the surface. As soon as the fruit has set give the plants a heavy mulch of well rotted manure.

The red currant under favorable conditions yields a large quantity of very fine fruit which is mostly borne on spurs on wood from 2 to 4 years old, differing in this respect from the black currant which produces its fruit on wood of the previous season's growth. The object of pruning is to provide a quantity of fruit bearing wood, and to keep the bush in proper shape to admit light and sunshine. In red currants very little if any cutting will be necessary the first year, the following fall remove all wood over 3 years old leaving 8 or 10 main stems of 2 and 3 year old wood for current year's crop, and also 6 or 8 strong shoots for a succession of fruit bearing wood. Remove all crossing or interfering branches and keep the bush open in the centre. Black currants After the first year remove all wood over 2 years old and encourage strong growth of young wood, leaving 8 or 10 fruit bearing stems with their side branches and a similar number of young shoots to maintain a succession of fruit bearing wood.

As soon as the wood has ripened in the fall and after pruning, give the bushes a heavy mulch of manure in the rows and around the bushes. In the following spring as soon as frost is out of the ground fork in the manure and commence cultivation.

SHATTERED HOPES

The man paused and stared with wideopen eyes. Surely his vision was playing him tricks? For two years he had been seeking a house, and here at last was the ideal thing. It was a snug little cottage and a shirt-sleeved man was nailing up a large notice: "TO LET."

With a gasp of joy the homeless one embraced the other and cried: "It's mine! Who's the landlord? Rent is no object!"

The shirt-sleeve man shook him off roughly. "Clear out!" he growled, "we're setting a scene for the movies!"

FILL 'EM AGAIN!

At a certain village church: the clerk used to sleep sometimes during the sermon, and it was not unknown that on occasions he used to petronize the village inn which was kept by a parish worthy, Mrs. "C."

One Sunday the clerk slept and dreamed. He imagined himself the centre of an admiring throng at the inn.

When the sermon was ended and he was expected to utter a loud and sonorous "amen," he started the congregation by shouting: "Fill 'em again, Mrs. 'C'; fill 'em again!"

NOTHING

A ragged and dejected child, with an untidy baby on her knee, looked up as the district visitor entered the room.

"Are you alone here?" asked the lady.

"Yes."

"Are you his mother?"

"Orspital."

"And your father?"

"Don't know."

"Good gracious! Does he do nothing to support you and his mother?"

"Yes."

"What does he do, my child?"

"What you said—nothing!"

"Oh," replied the stranger, "my young brother is a football player, and he wears them for knickerbockers."

Said the host: "No, you are wrong. The girl in the short dress is my grandmother, the young fellow in riding breeches is my wife, and the woman in the tea-gown is my twelve-year-old daughter, who likes to dress up in her great-grandmother's dresses."

"Now, Jane," said the mistress to her new maid. "I want you to remember before removing the soup-pot, to ask each person if he or she would like any more."

"Yes, ma'am," said Jane who was anxious to oblige.

Chauvin, Alberta, March 11th 1922.

In The Alberta

Legislature

It has been announced that there will be a full session of the legislature, probably in November, for the purpose of passing a provincial income tax. The members will not be paid extra indemnity for this special session, it is announced.

Premier Greenfield delivered his first budget speech in the legislature and was the only speaker. There was no debate. During the week the estimates were taken up and passed.

The budget statement showed that there had been a deficit on current account for 1921 of $2,022,837, the total current revenue having been $9,064,569, and the expenditure having been $11,086,936. Outstanding revenue still to be collected for 1921 is $1,000,000.

The estimated current revenue for the coming year was placed at $11,474,560.91 and the estimated expenditure at $11,747,062.88, leaving a deficit of $272,441.97.

To provide for estimated deficits, new taxes will be imposed as follows:

Gasoline, 2 cents a gallon by the consumer. (Premier Greenfield announced that the government would undertake an investigation of the price of gasoline).

Amusements, additional 2½ cents on tickets from 16c to $2.00.
Coal, additional 6c per ton.
Corporation tax also to be increased. The assets of the province total $165,648,682.

The new taxes, it is estimated, will bring in $28,000 more to the provincial secretary's department. The attorney-general's department is expected to bring in $1,615,000 more than last year. From school lands the government expects an increase of some $209,474.

During his speech, the premier referred to the great necessity of improving the market facilities for agricultural industry, and of securing reduction in freight rates.

Expenditures for the coming year are to be reduced from those of last year, the estimated public works expenditure being $31,000 less than in 1921, and the vote for general administrative purposes has been reduced. The health department vote has been increased by $24,000, chiefly by reason of the department having taken over the administration of the Ponoka hospital and other institutions.

Amendments to the dairymen's act, which provide for the elimination of cream buying stations were passed, a division being taken on third reading and the vote being 28 to 20. It is estimated that the elimination of cream stations will save the industry $150,000 a year, in addition to making it possible to greatly improve the quality of the product, since cream will be graded at the creameries by the government graders.

Amendments to the liquor act, which will tend to strengthen the hands of the government in providing for a stricter enforcement of the act, have been introduced by the attorney-general, Hon. Mr. Brownlee. In brief, these amendments are as follows:

No change in the principle of the present act.

Government by proclamation, may open dispensaries at such places as they think advisable.

Drugs stores will be permitted to continue the sale of liquor until government dispensaries are established, after which they may sell only by 6 ounce bottle on prescription.

Incorporated drug stores subject to same responsibilities as those not incorporated.

Penalties for unlawful possession of liquor other than in a common dwelling, increased in minimum from $20 to $50.

Fines by way of fines not increased but magistrates for first offences may (1) fine; (2) both fine and imprison; (3) imprison.

Liquor act commissioner to be appointed.

Government may, by order-in-council, regulate and limit the amount of liquor which may be sold to "privileged" persons, and determine the number of prescriptions which may be issued to a physician, and also the maximum amount of liquor which may be prescribed.

Restaurants, buffets, etc., are liable to a fine of from $200 to $1,000 for first offences for unlawful sale. Such places will also be placed under license by a special act.

Liquor export houses will be regulated under a new act, this to provide for a tax based on the stock carried with a maximum of $2,000 annually, and a surtax of $2 per gallon proof spirit in excess of 1,000 gallons.

Amendments to the school grants act will enable the government to give somewhat extended grants to high schools and to assist in instruction to a greater extent. Amendments to the school ordinance provides that town and village high schools may charge fees to non-resident pupils.

The new superannuation act for civil servants has been introduced and passed through second reading. It provides for retirement of civil servants at the age of 65, and for the creation of a superannuation fund by deduction of four per cent. of salaries, the government providing a like sum. The new act will be administered by a superannuation board. The new tax recovery act has been passed and will come into effect July 1st.

New provisions for fighting pests are being passed by the house. These new provisions will put obligations on farmers to destroy pests found on their farms, and will give right to government officials to enter upon the land to take such action as may be necessary for the destruction of pests. Provision is made for supplying poison which may be used on farm lands, and at cost price for use of railways rights of way, roads or irrigation ditches. Mating stations and distribution centres are provided for.

Amendments to the motor vehicles

ing speed-articles in the province, by making it possible for magistrates to impose for a certain period, the autos of those convicted under certain sections of the act relating to excessive speed or driving a car while intoxicated.

In response to Mr. Chaypool, of Didsbury, Hon. V. W. Smith, minister of railways, told the house that the contract entered into between the Northern Construction Co. on the Alberta Great Waterways railway, on August 31, 1920, has been terminated. The province paid the company $1,740,447.82 under the contract. This averaged 73 per cent higher than rates and prices paid by other railway companies for similar work in Alberta at concurrent periods of time, where contractors did not receive free transportation.

The work was performed as approximately 57 per cent in excess of schedule of unit prices set out in the contract. It was estimated that the province lost $548,000 by reason of the contract with the company, and that another $70,000 was lost in revenue, freight and passengers, through the company having free transportation on the line.

Mr. Edwards, of Calgary, was told that the total receipts in liquor vendors' stores during 1921 were $2,166,720.82, to net profit for the year being $271,226.83, the average amount invested in stock during the year was $924,683.52, the total net profits since the vendors' stores were opened was $2,108,752.13.

Mr. Mimes, of Claresholm, was told that the total salaries of all departments of the government were $3,353,610.56, that the total bonus paid in 1921 was $229,170. He was also told that the government was taking into consideration the whole question of salaries and bonuses of the civil service.

Mrs. McCullough, of Edmonton, was given some information concerning the women's institutes, to the effect that in 1915 there were 42 women's institutes and in 1921 there were 320. The membership in 1921 was 15,300, it having been 1400 in 1915. Total attendance at demonstrations and lectures in 1919 had been 21,000, and in 1921 had been 17,681. The local institutes, raised $90,000 in 1921.

The first Saturday session to be held by the house was held on last Saturday and an effort in being made to conclude a session this week. There are still a number of acts to be considered, including the amendments to the liquor act and other important legislation.

Formaline and Gopher Poison will now soon again be the order of the day. We have both already in stock and serve you. Buy now so you will not need to make a special trip when required.

"The man who once most wisely said 'Be sure you're right, then go ahead. Might well have added this to wit—'Be sure you're wrong before you quit.'"

"Enquest Inquirer (collecting statistics for work on temperance)—'And how many glasses of beer do you drink in a day?'"

The Person—"Well, I can't say, guv'nor. Some days I 'as about twenty or thirty, and then again, another day, perhaps I might have quite a lot."

The minister and his bride were preparing to eat a bite at a luncheonette. They were locally engaged with the bill of fare was the waitress, who was a much exclaiming and peroxidized young miss, came up to take their order. Suddenly the young minister looked up from the bill of fare, smiled sweetly at the waitress and said: "How is the chicken today?"

"Pretty good, kid," she retorted, "How are you?"

"Even a mule can't kick and go ahead at the same time."

"De world owes you a livin' son, but you's got to do some work to git yerself identified as de feller it's coming to."

There's no one makes a success of any sort w'out hard work,—and w'out keeping up hard work, what's fair.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN

Will the party, who in the fall of 1920, sold a bay horse with white in forehead, to H. A. Bratvold, then of Dina, please communicate with the Chauvin Chronicle, or the undersigned, who wishes to obtain definite proof of the age of this animal in order to settle a later transaction. The original owner is assured that he will not be put to any trouble or involved in any manner. Vital Cyr, Chauvin.

A solicitor called upon a colleague, and asked his advice upon a point of law.

The lawyer whose opinion had been sought said, "I generally get paid for what I know."

The questioner thereupon took half a crown out of his pocket, handed it to the other, and remarked: "Tell me all you know, and give me the change!"

In the East end school a mistress was reading to her class Shelley's ode to a skylark. To test the intelligence of her scholars, she asked if they could put into different words, expressing the same meaning, the line, "Hail to thee, blithe spirit—bird that dost weave!"

An arm shot up from the back row, "Well, Johnny, let us hear how you would put it."

"Hi! cocky. You ain't no blinkin' bird."
